About me

I am Sergi Bosch Raga, an interactive experience designer. My work encompasses visual communication, interactive experiences, and programming, driven by a deep curiosity to explore new tools and methods. I always seek to push boundaries and experiment in my projects. Recently, I've developed my skills in fields such as video mapping, sound reactive interfaces and 3D environments.

Interests

I've always been drawn to the world of 3D design, animation, and digital interaction, as I'm passionate about the freedom to create whatever the mind can imagine. I'm also deeply interested in voice acting, a field I've always wanted to explore and try out.

On the other hand, I also enjoy outdoor activities and video games, which I've been playing since I was little. I also practice rock climbing, an activity I'm passionate about that allows me to disconnect while challenging myself.
